VET CHECK

05/16/16 08:48 dog has wire/ or foriegn object on both sides of mouth. vmaritnez

05/16/16 12:14 Dog has external fixator apparatus on both sides of mandible- this is a technique for repair of mandibular fractures. Much hair regrowth, pin closest to ramus of mandible on left side is loose. Lower jaw deviates to the right. Suspect fx. has healed, and apparatus was never removed. Dog will need radiographs (can be done at time of neuter) to assess if has healed, and perhaps apparatus can be removed at time of neuter surgery at MCACC. nmayer

05/17/16 07:18 BAR, very active. Appears to be eating and drinking well. jruhs

05/19/16 16:38 BAR. nmayer.

05/20/16 07:29 BAR. Is very active. Appears to be eating and drinking normally. Normal stool in kennel. jruhs

05/22/16 18:12 No change, BAR. kramella

05/24/16 11:25 BAR; active; ate most of food. sottoman

05/24/16 12:46 DWeigold Is it possible to add to pre-alt list so the wire can be removed at the same time before placing up for adoption.

5-25-16-Dr. Mayer will be doing the surgery Thursday 5-26-16. HWINTERS

05/26/16 14:36 Dog was not on surgery list today, was not pulled into clinic. Will be brought to clinic tomorrow for Radiographs to assess healing of mandiblar fractures and removal of external fixator if able to do so. nmayer

05/28/16 07:22 Radiographs were taken yesterday, the bone appears to be fully healed and the fixator can be removed. We do not have the proper equipment to remove it, will have to go to full service vet. jruhs
